In view of the action of Dr. De La Matyr voting with the Republicans in opposition to scating Mr. Hull, of Florida, and further, in view of the published programme of the Greenbackers in Congress, we deem it proper to give the public an account of an interview that took place at the Doctor's residence, on the Thursday evening succeeding his election, between him and four well-known gentlemen of this city.
At the time named four prominent Democrats, whose word will be taken without ones tion, called upon the Doctor to congratulate him upon his election. They were cordially received, and the interview lasted some thirty minutes. The spokesman of the party told the Dector that his election gave quite as much pleasure to Democrats as to Nationals, and that he doubted not his course in Congress would be such as to justify the Democracy in having aided in his election. Dr. De La Matyr ex-pressed much gratitude for the Democratic support he had received, and said he intended Aid Society, was read, and met the approval of the gentlemen present:

At a meeting held at this place on last Thursday evening a committee of nine gentlemen was appointed to take under consideration the propriety of establishing a national emigration and society with headquarters in this city, in the interest of the colored people throughout the South. As a committee we have given one consideration to his subject, and have spared no pains in obtaining the views of others, including those of several gentlements in modelty. Encouraged by the aimost undifficient of these cools of sympathy with which we have met, and guided also by our own judgment in the matter, we unless thank precisions we have given especial consideration to the perfected, as hereimater detailed. In arriving at this conclusion we have given especial consideration to the present unfortunate and unguided exochas from the Nationals, he expressed great gratification of these people, and to the hopeless prospect for their improvement while they are forced on account of poverty and other causes to remain at the South. We have also taken into account the present unfortunate and unguided exochas from the Matter region, as well as many other facts which indicate an almost irrepressible desire upon the part of these people to fee from the laund of hele oppressors.
